Dear Learners,

This course presents material to educate the healthcare professional about pain: its pathophysiology, influencing factors, assessment techniques, and interventions. It also addresses common misconceptions about pain and pain management. It is PAIN. In its most benign form, it warns us that something isn't quite right, that we should take medicine or seek a healthcare professional. At its worst, however, pain robs us of our productivity, our well-being, and, for many suffering from extended illness, their very lives. Pain is a complex perception that differs enormously among individual patients, even those who appear to have identical injuries or illnesses. We, as healthcare professionals, must do our part to provide patients with adequate pain management through proper pain assessment and prompt interventions that are patient specific.

Objectives:

1. Distinguish between pain, pain threshold, and pain tolerance.
2. Name the three nociceptors involved in pain sensation.
3. Describe factors that influence pain perception.
4. Define assessment mnemonic PQRS.
5. Describe several physical and behavioral signs and symptoms of pain.
6. Compare pharmacologic and nonpharmacologic options for pain management.
7. Explain the principles of pain treatment.
8. Discuss standards for pain management.

VALUE ADDED COURSE ON
Medical-Surgical Nursing - PAIN MANAGEMENT

AIM & OBJECTIVES

Aim:

The aim of the course is to enhance knowledge about the phenomenon of pain, pain alleviation by means of drugs and other methods and providing practice in pain measurement and documentation.

Objectives:

- Prepares students for advanced practice roles as clinical experts
- Apply theoretical, patho-physiological and pharmacological principles and evidence base in implementing therapies / interventions in pain management
- Students will be able to explain the origin of pain and different mechanism of pain treatments
- Identify, analyze and assess causes of the pain and evaluate the patients nursing needs in and its treatment
- Carry out nursing interventions independently and in cross professional cooperation to mitigate pain in the patient and document nursing interventions.

Outcomes

Pain Management is to restore functioning and improve quality of life for persons suffering with chronic pain. The program emphasizes the students to learn various treatment options of pain management, discontinuation of opioids for the treatment of chronic benign pain and the return to a fulfilling lifestyle.

- Return to regular daily activities
- Increase physical strength, stamina and flexibility
- Reduce/eliminate use of pain medications
- Minimize pain behaviors
- Learn stress management techniques
- Return to normal lifestyle with modification in lifestyle
- Resume leisure and recreational activities
- Improve interpersonal relationships
- Reduce reliance on health-care professionals, with improved ability to self-manage chronic pain
